New Lloyd Comedy Coming to Torrance Has Many New Gags

Imagine Harold Lloyd piloting a horse drawn street car through the busy streets of New York City! Such in substance is the chief highlight of Harold Lloyd's newest comedy coming Sept. 4 and 5 to the Torrance theatre. Every Harold Lloyd comedy is known wherever film fans are known to delight in the situations and "gags" enacted by the popular film comedian, as standing head and shoulders above anything previously seen on the silver screen.

New comedy situations are synonymous with Harold Lloyd, which probably is the secret of his popularity with the film-going public today. There is nothing duplicated in any new picture he produces. Imagine then, the climax wrought by the many new funny situations in "Speedy" with Harold Lloyd gayly driving a horse drawn street car down the traffic congested streets of New York city, the "Last of the Mohicans," as one passerby reminded during the filming of the production.

"Speedy" details Lloyd's thrilling and laughable experience of running the horse drawn vehicle through the city's streets to save the franchise owned by "Pop" Dillon, grandfather of Ann Christy, with whom Speedy is in love. He does so with many handicaps set in his path by the villain who wishes to stop the daily run of the car, so he could win the franchise by default, and in turn sell it at a big price to the railway transportation officials who are desirous of obtaining it, although legitimately. "Speedy" marks the introduction of Ann Christy, who plays opposite Harold to stardom. She was chosen as a Baby Wampus Star for 1928, as the result of her performance, which is the same as stamping her definitely as a future queen of the movies. Bebe Daniels, Mildred Davis, and Jobyna Ralston were successfully introduced to screen fame by Mr. Lloyd.

Elks Male Chorus at L.B. Exposition

Torrance members of the Redondo Lodge of Elks were proud of the program given by the Redondo Elks Chanters at the Pacific Southwest Exposition on Aug. 25. The program was broadcast over Station KGER and was heard by thousands of listeners in Southern California. The Chanters' program included seven numbers, including a baritone solo by Lew Dreyer. The Chanters have developed into a splendid male chorus under the leadership of Jack Boaz.

eratic ballot was the favorite in each party.
The same situation prevailed in the choice of judges who were unopposed.
Write in Names
The ballot instructed voters to vote for 34 members of the Republican Central committee from this district. Only 32 names appeared on the ballot, however. Several Torrance citizens wrote in names to bring the number up to 34. Votes for persons whose names were written in were as follows: W. Harold Kingsley, 11; George A. Proctor, 6; John Dennis, 4; Carl L. Hyde, 3; William T. Klusman, 2; Dr. J. S. Lancaster, 1.

To Speed Light Action for City

Officials Planning Proceedings as Rapidly as Law Will Allow

City officials are doing their utmost to insure that the proceedings on street lights for Torrance shall be put through as quickly as the law will allow.

The council will meet on Tuesday, Sept. 18 to hear any protests against the resolution of intention to do the work. Few protests are anticipated. On that night, it is expected, City Clerk Bartlett will be instructed to advertise for bids for installing the system and the advertisement will be published the same week.

Four New Homes Grace El Prado

Four new homes grace El Prado, facing the park.

B. C. Buxton is completing an attractive home on the north side of the street for George Worcester. East of this dwelling George Towne is building another artistic Mediterranean style home for Mr. Winkler of the Union Tool Company.

In the same block on the south side of the street S. S. Worrell has built a tasty new home.

In the next block east a fourth Spanish-style home is being completed, by J. E. Scotten.

OBSERVATIONS

fight in Madison Square Garden created such bitterness in the Democratic party that it swung these states to the Republicans, but that this year, the result will be something else again.
It is also pertinent that the strength of LaFollette in 1924 was an element which must be considered in any study of this year's possibilities. The Democrats declare—and with some logic—that the LaFollette vote of 1924 will be for Smith in 1928. It is on this belief that they lay claim to the Wisconsin electoral votes.

ONE could go on to the extent of a volume discussing the possibilities. And when the votes are counted on Nov. 6, all of his deductions would probably be wrong. The foregoing table, however, should convince anyone that the race at this writing is close. It strikes us that the outcome of the election depends largely on the ability of the Republicans to convince those to whom changes in the prohibition laws are the chief issue, that prohibition is not an issue and that even if it were Smith, as President, would be impotent to alter the situation.

WE do not believe Hoover will break the solid South. He may win the border states, but the issue of color is too strong in Dixie to enable him to do much more than cut down the Democratic majority in the black belt.

Neither do we believe that Smith can carry any of the farm states. Wherefore it seems certain that the key to the whole campaign is in the far East and in Kentucky and Tennessee. Of course hope will drive the Democrat to a strong campaign in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, where they believe a strong wet sentiment in the large cities may enable them to win for Smith.

THE campaign has only started. It will not reach the high pitch until the latter part of September. Both parties are well financed. Both are being guided by the country's most astute politicians. The issues are clear. They will be even more clear by Oct. 1.
